Armistead Mechanical Receives NESCA Gold Award for Superior Safety Record

Waldwick, NJ – Armistead Mechanical, Inc., a fourth-generation mechanical contracting and engineering firm with offices in Waldwick, NJ and Newburgh, NY, was recently presented with the Gold Safety Award by the Northeastern Subcontractors Association (NESCA), in recognition of outstanding jobsite safety for the 2009 year.

Created to recognize NESCA's members each year for their excellence in safety, the Safety Awards are part of an ongoing collaboration between NESCA and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) to assist subcontractors in protecting employee safety and health.

With a lost workday case incidence rate (LWIR) of zero, Armistead was the leader in its Gold Award category, which requires that members have a LWIR between 0 and 1.0. Silver awards were given to members with a LWIR of 1.01 - 2.0, while members with a LWIR of 2.01 - 3.0 received bronze awards.

“We are thrilled to have received this award and are proud of our achievement of maintaining superior safety records,” said Bob Armistead, President of Armistead Mechanical. “We remain committed to upholding the highest standards of safety on our job sites and will continue to infuse knowledge and training into the Armistead team in order to properly preserve the safety and health of our employees.”
